- The Form Selection section allows you to define the type of IDX page that will be generated.

The Search Form and Display settings should be left to the default settings.

Activation

- By default, your IDX page will be disabled. Select IDX Enabled to ensure that the page will be available when you save your changes.

You can disable pages at a later time, instead of deleting, to keep it available as needed.

- The HTML: box will generate a code when you save the page. This code is used to place the IDX frame on your website.

Once the HTML: code is generated, it can then be copied and pasted onto another document to be used for your website.

To copy the document:

- Highlight the HTML: code by right-clicking the box, then left-clicking on Select all.
- Once the code is highlighted, right-click the box again and select Copy (or press Ctrl + C).

After you've copied the code, save it for later use:

- Right-click on the text area of your document, then left-click on Paste.
- Remember to save your document so you can access it when needed.

Styling Your Page

The Styling section is where you can change the colors and button styles on the IDX page.

Play around with these settings to find a style that suits you. Choosing the right button styles and colors will help to blend the page with your website. Use the Preview section at the bottom of the page to view your changes.

The image shows a 'Styling' control panel with the following settings:

- Page background color: #ffffff
- Header background color: #ffffff
- Header font color: #000000
- Button style: Default

Colors

To change the colors on your page, click on one of the three colored tiles to bring up the color palate. Pick the color you want by using the dots on the palate, then click Done to confirm.

You can also type in the value if you already know the hexadecimal code.

Button Styling

The Button style: menu allows you to choose from different button styles.

Preview and Save

Use the Preview area at the bottom to see how your new IDX page will look before it is applied to your website.
